

VARIATION

black and white with design handle

I came up with this handbag pattern two years ago, but never found the time to cut it. I created different handbags in all possible colors so that I could match the handbags to the shoes I have at home, and for black or white clothes I could count on the fact that I could always reach for a normally bought handbag. But I missed her more and more :)

After finishing another of the bags for a customer, I decided it was time to finally make this black and white one for myself. And here is the result. I'm excited! She fulfilled my dreams beyond expectations...
