

SMALL BAG on the belt

It was autumn, and every time I went out with my children in boots, a long sweater and a vest without pockets, I decided where to put my mobile phone, credit card, a pack of tissues and some money (in case the children, as they almost always did, dragged me to the store for something good). Not that I don't like my original handbags and bags, but there are often days when I like to have my hands free for my children's hands. Our little one already prefers to push on his own rather than a stroller, and passing the bag from hand to hand or to the hands of one of the older daughters when he wants to carry it also seemed impractical to me, so I invented and created this bag on my belt, where I everything you need will fit.

Material inventory

Looped surfaces and belt edges: used waste cotton fabric

Locking medium: cotton string

Lapel trims and buttonholes: black satin ribbon

Belt: looped same as bag + 2 buttons

Lining: none

TIPS FOR IMPROVEMENT

If looping the belt seems tedious and impractical, it is possible to loop only the pocket and attach it to your regular belt. This will also increase the possibility of finishing your outfit with pockets in different colors according to the color of your clothes.
